US policy is to consider PL 480 usual marketing requirements as "global" requirements, that is, requirements that may be satisfied by purchases from any free world source. In accordance this policy, Title I PL 480 agreement with Indonesia stipulates that Indonesia buy 650,000 MT rice per year "from US and countries friendly to US", not specific amounts from specific suppliers. Would be contrary this policy for US attempt persuade Indonesia buy same amount rice from Thailand this year as last year. Indonesia would be justified in regarding such attempt as unwarranted interference its internal affairs; other rice exporting countries would be justified in regarding it as discrimination against them, since under normal conditions international trade, any one supplier could reasonably hope increase its sales to Indonesia at expense other suppliers if its terms more competitive.

You may inform RTU, however, that in negotiating sale of 150,000 MT rice, we shall make clear to GOI that we cannot supply any more PL 480 rice this crop year unless traditional suppliers unable meet Indonesia's needs and that, if Indonesia falls behind in procurement usual marketings, we may be obliged hold up issuance PA's for Title I rice. You may also wish say that, in opinion
